JAIL PROBLEMS - Sgt. Scott Herforth, a corrections officer at the Jefferson County jail, examines booking information Wednesday. Sheriff Fred Abdalla has said 15 employees would be laid off and two-thirds of the available cell space would be closed.

No one's sure what's next for jail

By JIM DOBBS Staff writer

What happens now? That's the question Jefferson County Sheriff Fred Abdalla is asking himself.

With Abdalla's announcement that 15 adult detention employees will be laid off and two-thirds of the new county jail's available cell space will be closed, Abdalla said county residents are faced with few options: either close the jail completely or fund its operation through a new levy.

"The ultimate solution will lie with the citizens of Jefferson County. I know they're fed up with this, but no one is more upset and more nauseated by this than me. I've been wrestling with this for five years," Abdalla said. They wanted a jail, and they got ripped off. They've got one now. The question is, what will they do with it?"

The jail's operating costs, particularly related to staffing levels, have been a major point of contention between county officials and the jail's architect and former project manager, the V Group, and have ultimately led to the layoffs and cell closings and may lead to more.

"This is just the first cut," Abdalla said. "I still don't have enough money to operate. I still have to cut down."

By the end of the month, 14 corrections officers and a nurse will be off their jobs and cell space in the 120-inmate jail will be limited to 40 adult prisoners.

County and V Group officials have verbally sparred on a number of occasions over responsibility for $7 million in cost overruns in the jail's construction, delays in the project's completion, and consultation services by the company used in determining staffing levels for the $25 million facility. The jail finally opened for business in January, more than a year after its scheduled opening date.

The county, company and various construction contractors are involved in a finger-pointing battle in U.S. district court over the jail project.

The sparring continued Wednesday, as V Group officials defended his company's action regarding the jail.

"Certainly, there is a group of officials, the sheriff being one of them, that would if the river flooded today, blame the V Group," Frank Fels, vice president of the Cleveland-based architecture and consulting company, said Wednesday.

Fels said staffing levels and operating costs for the jail were submitted to state

Knowledge Kiosk Search Help

Overview

The Knowledge Kiosk supports two types of search requests: Natural Language searching and Boolean searching. A Natural Language search utilizes common "everyday" language like the kind that might be found in letters and other documents submitted for inclusion in the Kiosk. To run a Natural Language search, simply type the words or phrases you wish to use as search terms into the Search entry box. There's no need to use punctuation of any kind. After the Natural Language search, Knowledge Kiosk sorts retrieved documents by their relevance to your search request.

Boolean searches consist of a group of search words or phrases linked by special connectors such as and, or, and not that indicate the relationship between the search terms. Examples:

apple and pear	Both words must be present
apple or pear	Either word can be present
apple w/5 pear	Apple must occur within 5 words; either prior to or following, pear
apple not w/5 pear	Apple must not occur within 5 words; either prior to or following, pear
apple and not pear	Only apple must be present
name contains smith	The field name must contain smith

If you use more than one connector, parentheses should be employed to indicate precisely what you want to search for. For example, apple and pear or orange juice

The screenshot shows a Microsoft Internet Explorer window with the title bar "Kiosk General User - Microsoft Internet Explorer". The address bar contains the URL "https://www.knowledgekiosk.com/v3demo/default.asp". The main content area displays the "eASE edge" software interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with icons for Home, Password, Print, Favorites, Pop-up Show, Summary, and Tutorial. Below this is a header with "Demonstration Kiosk" and "All Kiosk View". On the left, there's a sidebar with sections for "Change Perspective" (Forward Case, Search Category), "Full Search" (Advanced Full Search, Standard Search, Expert Search, Element Search), and "Search Help...". Under "View Collection by:" are links for Trial Evidence, Class, Author, Recipient, CCs, Subject, Date, Demonstrative Exhibits, Deposition Transcripts, Deposition Video, and Trial Exhibits. The central part of the screen shows a "Personal Favorites / Crabbie Depo Observations" section. It includes a "Add A New Folder" dialog box listing folders like Root, Forwards, Group, Show Demo, Presentation Queue, Trialadvantage Presentation, DepoPrep, and Crabbie Depo Observations. Below this is a table with columns for Submitted Date, Short Description, Exhibit Pg, Comments, and Assertion. One row is shown: "7/3/00", "Pretrial Examination of William Crabbie", "61", "Feel that this can cover our assertion related to bad faith actions", and a small thumbnail image. At the bottom is a "Legend" table with icons and descriptions for Profile Card (Adobe PDF), Delete (Sound Byte), Forward To Someone (Video), and Edit/Rename (Open in new Window).
